Table of Contents

Abstract ii
Resumen v
Resum viii
Acknowledgements xi
List of tables: xvi
List of figures: xviii
List of abbreviations xx
Chapter 1: Introduction 1
1 Introduction 2
1.1 Three technologies for language learning 5
I Podcasting 6
II Apps 7
III Twitter 9
1.2 Potential and evaluation of the three technologies 10
2 Computer-Assisted Language Learning 11
3 Mobile-Assisted Language Learning 17
4 Autonomous Language Learning 21
4.1 Learner autonomy and Language learning: 24
4.2 CALL / MALL and learner autonomy: 27
5 Evaluating technology for Language Learning purposes 30
6 Six useful concepts 34
6.1 Teaching Strangers 35
6.2 Digital Capabilities 36
6.3 Micro-credentialing 38
6.4 Continuous partial attention 39
6.5 Foreign Language Anxiety 40
6.6 Normalisation 41
7 Aims and Methods 43
7.1 Overarching research questions 46
7.2 Methods 47
8 Thesis Outline 50
Chapter 2: Published works 53
Section I: Podcasting as a language learning tool 54
Publication 1: 55
1 Introduction 56

2 Podcasting and language learning 59
3 Review of current resources available 69
4 Conclusion 76
Publication 2: 83
1 Introduction 84
2 Literature review 85
3 Research questions and hypotheses 90
4 Context and methods 92
5 Results and discussion 95
6 Limitations 103
7 Further research 104
8 Conclusion 105
Publication 3: 108
1 Introduction 109
2 Podcasting as a mobile technology for teaching and learning 112
3 Methods 118
4 Results 121
5 Discussion 126
6 Limitations, Further Research and conclusion 131
Section II: Mobile apps for language learning and teaching 136
Publication 4: 137
1 Introduction 138
2 Apps for language learning: a literature review 138
3 A taxonomy of mobile apps for language learning 143
4 A framework for evaluating language learning apps 148
5 Further research 152
6 Conclusion 153
Publication 5: 155
1 Introduction: apps for language learning 156
2 Literature review: research into apps for language learning 159
3 Research questions 160
4 Participants and Methods 161
5 Results 162
6 Discussion 173
7 Conclusion, limitations and further research 177
Publication 6: 183
1 Introduction: apps for language learning 184

2 Literature review 185
3 Research questions, methods and participants 189
4 Results 193
5 Discussion 202
6 Limitations, further research and conclusion 203
Section III: Twitter as a language teaching and learning tool 215
Publication 7: 216
1 Introduction 217
2 Twitter and language learning 218
3 Evidence of engagement and learning 220
4 Conclusion 222
Publication 8: 223
1 Introduction 224
2 Literature review 225
3 Research Questions 231
4 Methods 232
5 Results 235
6 Discussion 241
7 Conclusion 244
Publication 9: 251
1 Introduction 252
2 Background 253
3 Research questions 257
4 Method 258
5 Results 260
6 Discussion 266
7 Limitations, further research and conclusion 269
Chapter 3: Discussion of results: contributions and impact of the research 272
Technology I: Podcasting as a language learning and teaching tool 273
Technology II: Mobile applications for language learning 277
Technology III: Twitter as a language teaching and learning tool 280
Chapter 4: Conclusion 283
4.1 Considerations on the main themes and concepts 284
4.1.1 Computer-Assisted Language Learning 284
4.1.2 Mobile-Assisted Language Learning 285
4.1.3 Autonomous Language Learning 287
4.1.4 Evaluating technology for Language Learning purposes 289

4.1.5 The six useful concepts 291
4.2 A new MALL research agenda? 295
4.3 What next? 297
4.4 Post-script commentary: The New Normal 301
References 304